Interns develop essential skills such as communication, teamwork, problem-solving, and time management. They also gain confidence in their abilities and learn to adapt to a professional work environment.

Contacts

- Check eligibility requirements: Review the eligibility criteria for SARS internships. Typically, internships are open to South African citizens or individuals legally authorized to work in South Africa. Ensure that you meet the minimum academic and other qualifications specified by SARS.
- Research available opportunities: Visit the SARS website or other official communication channels to identify internship opportunities. These platforms will provide information on available positions, application periods, and specific requirements for each internship program.
- Prepare your application documents: Update your resume/CV to highlight your education, relevant coursework, skills, and any prior experience. Tailor your resume to showcase your suitability for the internship program. In addition, prepare a concise and well-written cover letter expressing your interest in the internship and explaining why you are a suitable candidate.
- Complete the application form: Some internship programs may require you to fill out an application form. Download and complete the form, ensuring that all sections are accurately filled in and any requested documents are attached.
- Submit your application: Send your completed application documents, including your resume/CV, cover letter, and any other requested documents, to the designated email address or submission portal provided by SARS. Follow any specific instructions provided by SARS regarding the format or naming conventions for your files.

- Confirmation and tracking: Once you have submitted your application, you may receive an automated confirmation or acknowledgment email. Keep a record of your application details, including any reference numbers or tracking information, for future reference.
- Wait for a response: After the application deadline has passed, SARS will review the received applications. Shortlisted candidates will be contacted for further assessment, which may include interviews, assessments, or other selection methods.
- Interview and assessment: If you are shortlisted, prepare for the interview or any other assessment stages. Research SARS, familiarize yourself with their work, and be ready to discuss your qualifications, skills, and interest in tax administration.
- Final selection and offer: Based on the assessment process, SARS will make their final selection of interns. If you are selected, you will receive an offer letter outlining the details of the internship, such as the duration, start date, and any other relevant information. Review the offer letter carefully and respond within the specified timeframe to confirm your acceptance.
